SUPER POWER SOURCE The Maria Cristina Falls supplies water to the 59-year-old Agus 6 hydroelectric power plant in Iligan City, the main source of electricity for Lanao del Norte province and the rest of Western Mindanao. The region suffers from daily outages on the average of two hours due to an acute power shortage. The government will rehabilitate the plant over 30 months at a cost of P2.4 billion.

HK ruling on maids residency overturned

HONG KONG—The hopes of thousands of foreign maids, including Filipinos, to claim residency here were dashed after the Court of Appeal overturned on Wednesday a landmark ruling.

"It must be up to the sovereign authority to decide the extent to which the status of permanent resident should be extended to foreign nationals," Judge Andrew Cheung wrote in a 68-page judgment accepting the government's appeal.

The High Court ruled on Sept. 30 last year that domestic worker Evangeline Banao Vallejos, a Filipino, had the right to request permanent residency status, something that had been denied to foreign maids until then.

ERC allows increase in generation costs

By Amy R. Remo and Carly C. Yamsuan

POWER consumers should brace themselves for higher electricity rates starting May as the Energy Regulatory Commission allowed state-run National Power Corp. (Napocor) to jack up its generation charges in Luzon, the Visayas and even in brownout-plagued Mindanao.

The ERC approved the increases in generation charges by 68.84 centavos per kilowatt-hour (kWh) in Luzon, 60.68 centavos per kWh in the Visayas, and 4.42 centavos per kWh in Mindanao.

Currently, Napocor's effective rate is P5.0160 per kWh in Luzon, P4.8748 per kWh in the Visayas and P2.9221 per kWh in Mindanao.

The ERC said in a statement that the rate increases covered the applications filed by Napocor and Power Sector Assets and Liabilities

SC slams door on coco farmers

By Fernando del Mundo

COCONUT farmers can kiss goodbye their hopes of recovering nearly P60 billion worth of shares in San Miguel Corp. (SMC).

The Supreme Court slammed the door to any further judicial action concerning a 20-percent block of SMC shares when it issued an "entry of judgment" after declaring on April 12, 2011, that the contested portfolio belonged to Eduardo "Danding" Cojuangco, current chair of the highly diversified conglomerate and uncle of President Aquino.

Surrender, ex-Palawan gov told

By DJ Yap in Manila and Redempto D. Anda, Inquirer Southern Luzon

INTERIOR Secretary Jesse M. Robredo yesterday called on former Palawan Gov. Joel Reyes and his mayor-brother to surrender and face charges in the 2011 murder of environmentalist-broadcaster Gerardo "Doc Gerry" Ortega.

Robredo said in a text message to the Inquirer that he preferred that Reyes and Mayor Mario Reyes be taken in custody without resistance than be hunted down as fugitives.

"I would rather that ex-Gov. Joel Reyes and Mayor Mario Reyes et al. surrender," Robredo said in a text message. "I will order a manhunt if they don't."

Dynamic Infrastructure Services

OWN YOUR CLOUD

Finally, a cost-effective plug-and-play private cloud solution

Globe Telecom delivers another innovative ICT solution with Dynamic Infrastructure Services (DIS), the company's latest addition to its portfolio of cloud computing services. A first in the Philippines, DIS reduces the complexity of cloud computing by leveraging pre-configured and fully-tested components so enterprises can build private clouds at a lower cost. Customers who avail of DIS can easily scale their capacity, depending on their business needs, without requiring any additional CAPEX.

Development Tools

DIS is optimized for delivering web-based applications. It prioritizes traffic, offloads network processing and increases reliability. Further, DIS has development tools, which subscribers can avail of as part of the Platform-as-a-Service offering. Hence, companies now have the capability to develop their own applications for their specific requirements. Access to these tools also provides users another layer of flexibility given that they can create, debug and maintain their own sets of applications in their network.

Compute and Storage Solutions

When enterprises implement DIS, they get more than IT resources. This means that development teams can rapidly provision fault tolerant and scalable compute and storage resources and a company's IT staff can maintain control and foster consistency and compliance within their network.

Experience Dynamic Infrastructure Services and find out more about Globe Business products and services by calling +63(2)730-1288. You may also email customersupport@globebusiness.com.ph or visit www.globe.com.ph/business.

NEW SPECIES The "Insulamon palawanense" (above) and "Insulamon magnum" (below) crabs are two of the four new species ... that were recently discovered by scientists in Palawan.

Crabs show rich Palawan biodiversity

By Redempto D. Anda
Puerto Princesa City

Scientists discover 4 new species of the crustaceans in the province

SCIENTISTS exploring the inland waters of Palawan have discovered four new species of brightly colored river crabs, underscoring the island's still unexplored biological richness.

The scientific breakthrough was announced on March 21 by the Senckenberg Research Institute based in Dresden, Germany, which spearheaded several years of biological surveys in various parts of mainland Palawan under the project Aqua-Palawana undertaken primarily by De La Salle University (DLSU) in Manila.

Dr. Hendrik Freitag of the DLSU Department of Biology and the Senckenberg Museum of Zoology told the Inquirer in an e-mail interview on Sunday that their study discovered four new species of freshwater crabs under the genus Insulamon, where only one species was previously thought to exist—the Insulamon unicorn—found only in the Calamianes region of Northern Palawan.

Scientific paper

"When the genus was erected, it consisted only of a single species, Insulamon unicorn, which was described from a holotype male from Busuanga Island, and several paratypes from Palawan mainland. Based on available new material, a total of five species are recognized presently, four of which are new to science," Freitag said in a scientific paper published by the Raffles Bulletin of Zoology on Feb. 29, 2012.

He named the four new species as Insulamon palawanense, Insulamon magnum, Insulamon johannchristiani and Insulamon porculum.

Freitag said the specimens used in the study were collected from various parts of Palawan during separate expeditions, the last of which were held in 2007 and 2008.

Mining effluents

At the same time, he expressed concern that the habitats of these newly discovered animals were under threat because of effluents coming from mining projects.

"I am very sure that dumping of mine tailings into rivers will have serious impacts on the river ecosystems and organisms [illegible] ... changes in the river hydraulics," he said.

Freitag said he hoped the results of their study "will have some impact" on the mining debate [illegible] ... Palawan from [illegible] ... its fragile topography and rich biodiversity.

Of the new crab species, the paper described the colorful Insulamon palawanense as the most widely distributed species in mainland Palawan while the other three new species may be found only in restricted regions of the province.

The three other species were described to have reddish violet predominant colors and were found only in isolated islands.

Freshwater dependent

"These creatures are unable to spread elsewhere, as they skip the larval stage in seawater and depend on freshwater at all stages of their development. Having been completely separated from their relatives, they have developed their own separate species and genera over tens of thousands of years," said the online journal Alpha Galileo Foundation, which carried Senckenberg's official announcement of the breakthrough in its website on March 21.

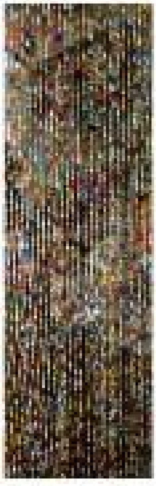

[illegible] ... It is all the more important to do research in this region and show that the biodiversity of these islands is unique and worth protecting," Freitag said.

Biodiversity hot spot

The study described Palawan as one of the world's "biodiversity hot spots" [illegible] ... could not be found anywhere else on earth.

"The Philippine island of Palawan is something special. Located between the Sundaic and Philippine region, it combines two of the world's most important biodiversity hot spots," the foundation said.

Town explores the many ways of recycling

By Delfin Mallari Jr.
Mauban, Quezon

MAUBAN, a first-class municipality in Quezon, is finding cash in trash in what seems to be a thousand and one ways.

From discarded candy wrappers, juice packs, soft-drink plastic straws and other items, curtains, comforters, throw pillows, bags, hollow blocks and souvenir things are coming out at the end of the production line.

"If the garbage item is recyclable, we will find ways to convert it into something useful," said Edy Rosende, head of the municipal environment and natural resources office.
